When viewing with an internet connection, program headings are links to detailed program overviews on the Team Craft website.

InterActive Teams

Involve participants in a series of fun activities that promote team skills and mindsets for working collaboratively across work areas in an organization. Participants interact in a team of up to twelve, which is paired with another team, and then sets out to conquer a challenge in which they share the same goal. The program is customized with activities you select for the schedule. A 4.5 hour schedule, for example, allows for three challenge activities and a lively action planning session at the end to identify shared strategies for working together in the future. Numbers: minimum 14 people; no upper limit; Hours: 3 to 8. Indoors or out.

Team Tournaments

Great teamwork and collective sparks of brilliance are demonstrated by the most entertaining and successful teams in one of our Team Tournament formats. Teams show their smarts by producing great solutions to off beat challenges in one of our four formats - Bridge Builders, Eggs In Space, Mini Golf Classic and Mega Teams. Each is a great platform to demonstrate effective team skills and to develop lasting relationships. If you have at least 3 hours and 30 people, a Team Tournament is sure to be a popular activity at your gathering.

City Sleuths

City Sleuths is a fun riddle solving activity that is Team Craft's upgrade to a scavenger or treasure hunt as a team building activity. Teams have from three to five participants and compete to score the most points by finding answers to riddles among the curious, historic, and entertaining elements of a city district. A three hour version ends after one round with scoring answers, and a short debrief. A four and one-half hour version includes two rounds of riddle solving and greater team learning. Winning team members receive engraved gold medals on a ribbon. Everyone gets a memento of the experience. We conduct City Sleuths in 15 great American Cities.

The ROPES Challenge Course

- Team Initiatives are focused on effective team problem solving. Team leadership skills are challenged to get everyone doing their part in this intense fast paced format. Both team strengths and areas for further development are identified. This format can be conducted indoors in the event of inclement weather.

Low Ropes

build esprit de corps and involve shared trust, risk taking, mutual support, and effective communication while involved in activities a few feet off the ground.

Movie Studio

A Movie Studio is typically a day long process that involves teams in the design and shooting of a short movie in the morning, editing it in the afternoon, and then holding a film festival with "Oscar" like awards in the late afternoon or at dinner. In the afternoon, while one or two people from each team work with a Team Craft staff to edit the productions, other team members can participate in a City Sleuths or InterActive Teams program. The movies can be on important themes for the company, yet often include a lot of humor and clever twists that are fun to see. Afterwards, Team Craft provides digital files of the movies to share among participants. An alternate schedule can do the planning and shooting in the afternoon and show the videos the following day.

Raft Craft

Raft Craft is a lightly competitive activity conducted on a beach or large pool. The challenges: first, design and build a raft using a wild mix of unusual floatable materials, and then race the contraption in a competitive sprint. Have fun with plenty of room for creativity, whimsical good humor, and high spirited racing. It's also a great way to beat the heat on a hot day.

Trail Blazers

Trail Blazers is conducted in an outdoor program area. Small teams of three to five participants crisscross each other's paths while searching for hidden caches containing prizes. At these target locations they obtain riddles and coded messages they need to unravel to solve a final challenge as one large team at the end. Teams are trying to contribute to a big win. At times, teams join up to solve a shared mini-challenge. The experience is a real adventure; it's stimulating and unpredictable in fun ways. Teams use GPS devices as well as maps and compasses to pinpoint their target destinations. The program lasts from four to eight hours including orientation and debrief/action planning at the end. Participants can number from 14 to over 140.

Team & Interpersonal Relationship Styles Discovery & Skill Building

Participants can greatly benefit from a Personal and Team Styles program. Our session develops a shared understanding of the mix of personal communication, decision making, and role behavior styles within the group. People leave with a new awareness about their shared styles that support their teamwork. The program is combined with one of the team activity formats to highlight the styles in action in a fun and informative way. An online survey is available to identify participant styles before a program.
